

The one line they remember.

One sentence a stranger could repeat accurately.
Not a mission statement.

• MANUAL BY DEFAULT

The specific thing that happens today.

Describe the mechanic, not the mood. Who does what, how many times, and what it costs them. Forward-looking: the process is ready to change, nobody was doing it wrong.

00

A count of hand-offs, steps, or people

00 min

The delay that costs somebody something

00

Systems holding one answer, none agreeing

- CONFIGURE ONCE

Set it up once. Then it runs.

- The first thing it does

One sentence on the mechanic. What changes, and for whom.

- The second thing it does

Three points, no more. A fourth is a different slide.

- The third thing it does

End on the one that is hardest for anyone else to copy.

● WHY NOW

Why this is big, and why now.

Two sentences on the shift that makes this the moment. Every figure below is sourced and cited in the footer, or it does not go on the slide.

$00B

The total market · replace, and cite it

00%

The segment you actually serve

0.0×

The trend that makes now the moment

● HOW IT IS DONE TODAY

What is different about this.

CAPABILITY	THE MANUAL WAY	POINT TOOLS	YOU
Capability one	By hand	Separate	Built in
Capability two	Manual	Manual	Automatic
Capability three	Manual	Varies	Automatic
Capability four	Partly	Add-on	Built in

● WHO IS BUILDING IT

Why these people.

Full Name

Co-Founder & CEO

The one credential that matters for this problem.

Full Name

Co-Founder & CTO

What they built before, in one line.

Full Name

Role

Keep it to a single sentence. Nobody reads two.

Full Name

Advisor

Advisors get one line and no photo if you have none.

Backed by your investors · or delete this line

The line you want them repeating.

The ask, stated plainly: what you are raising, what it buys, and what you want the reader to do next.

See it at yoursite.com →